

Join the APX Artist-in-Residence Program

We think young artists and startups have a lot in common. They take risks and work with limited resources. Although the outcome and their paths differ from one-another, we still believe that they can nourish each other. We think interesting things happen when different people work together. That is why we founded the artist in residence program in cooperation with EIGEN + ART Lab.

Become our next artist-in-residence for the forthcoming program from October 1st, 2018 until December 21st, 2018 in Berlin.

Why Join the APX Artist in Residence Program?

- Receive €4,000 for the duration of the program
- Interact daily with international start-ups and immerse yourself in a dynamic atmosphere
- Benefit from pitch trainings and additional workshops
- Create an exhibition within the accelerator, the penthouse, or other Axel Springer's spaces (costs to be carried by the artist).

“What really struck me about my experience at [the former accelerator] Axel Springer Plug & Play was how curious everyone was about my [creative] process and how much I found myself talking about my work-in-progress on a daily basis. It was really, really good practice!”

– Katie Armstrong, Artist @ Axel Springer Plug and Play in 2013

What We Expect from You?

- Avid interest in the Berlin start-ups and digital scene
- Desire to work alongside digital start-ups/techies, share, and also discuss your process with them
- Participation in some events and meetings (e.g. every Monday at noon we have a meeting where all the start-ups (and you) provide a status update of their work and goals for the upcoming week)
- Leave something behind. We will tell you what the previous artists have done. (Materials to be paid from the €4,000).

How to apply?

Please submit a digital portfolio to Marie Gerbault to lab@eigen-art.com.

We will invite selected applicants for an interview with the APX and EIGEN + ART Lab teams by mid of September (skype interview is also possible).
